The article discusses the alleged moral implications with solitary confinement in U.S. prisons, focusing on author Lisa Guenther's book "Solitary Confinement: Social Death and Its Afterlives." Topics include Illinois Senator Dick Durbin's hearings on the use of solitary confinement, Guenther's focus on the effects of confinement on the human experience, and a history of solitary confinement.